

Public Talk

Flint Sparks, PhD

Waking Up and Growing Up: Maturing in Life and Practice

Wednesday, March 24th, 7:00-8:30 PM

James Reeb Unitarian Church
2146 E. Johnson St., Madison

The great 20th century Zen Master Uchiyama Roshi was once asked his definition of Bodhisattva. After a brief pause, he replied in his very limited English “I think, maybe a grown up”. What is this “grown up” that Uchiyama is referring to and how might this expression of the Bodhisattva assist us in maturing emotionally, relationally, and spiritually in life and practice?

This talk is offered for “dana” – a financial contribution that is made from a generous heart (donation).